  - a. claim 7, line 19, "the first cam engaging member" should read --the first cam engaging member of the primary pawl--;
  - b. claim 7, line 24, "the first cam engaging member" should read --the first cam engaging member of the secondary pawl--;
  - c. claim 7, line 27, "the first cam engaging member" should read --the first cam engaging member of the secondary pawl--;
  - d. claim 13, line 10, "the first cam engaging member" should read --the first cam engaging member of the primary pawl--;
  - e. claim 13, line 12, "the second cam engaging member" should read --the second cam engaging member of the primary pawl--;
  - f. claim 13, line 17, "the second cam engaging member" should read --the second cam engaging member of the secondary pawl--;
  - g. claim 24, line 1, "claim 6" should read --claim 23--;

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

Art Unit: 3636

2. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

3. Claims 6, 22, 27, and 28 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by U.S. Publication No. 2002/0096925 A1 to Uramichi.

Uramichi discloses a reclining vehicle seat hinge assembly that includes all the limitations recited in claims 6, 22, 27, 28, and 30. Uramichi shows an assembly having a seat pan and a seat back pivotally connected to the seat pan (see paragraph 3), a hinge assembly connecting the seat back to the seat pan and including a first housing 11 (Fig. 2) secured to the seat pan, a second housing 12 (Fig. 2) secured to the seat back and pivotable with respect to the first housing, a shoulder (Fig. 2) of the second housing, a plurality of teeth 12c (Fig. 2) extending radially inward from the shoulder, a primary cam 16 (Fig. 2) rotatable with respect to the first housing and having a pair of primary camming surfaces 16b, 16c (Fig. 2), a secondary cam 18 (Fig. 2) rotatably driveable by the primary cam and having a plurality of camming surfaces 18d (Fig. 2) of first and second pairs of slots with camming edges, a pair of primary pawls 15 (Fig. 2) slidable radially with respect to the first housing upon engagement with a corresponding primary camming surface of the secondary cam and having a plurality of radially outward extending teeth (Fig. 2) engageable with the teeth of the second housing, first and second cam engaging members of each primary pawl, a pair of secondary pawls 15 (Fig. 2) slidable radially with respect to the first housing upon engagement with a corresponding camming surface of the secondary cam (see paragraph 30) and having a plurality of radially outward extending teeth engageable with the teeth of the second housing, a first primary spring 21 (Fig. 2) operable to bias the primary cam into an engaged position, and a plurality of guide surfaces 11c (Fig. 2) of the first housing along which the primary and secondary pawls travel wherein the secondary pawls having a construction identical to that of the primary pawls.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

4. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

5. Claim 31 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Uramichi in view of U.S. Patent No. 6,003,945 to Kojima.

Uramichi discloses a reclining vehicle seat hinge assembly that is basically the same as that recited in claim 31 except that cam locking member lacks a cooperating washer, as recited in the claim. See Figure 2 of Uramichi for the teaching that the assembly has a cam locking member 17 to secure the first and second housings. Kojima shows a reclining vehicle seat hinge assembly similar to that of Uramichi wherein the assembly has a first housing 1 (Fig. 2), a second housing 2 (Fig. 2), a cam locking member 4,45 (Fig. 2), and a washer 42 (Fig. 2) cooperating with the cam locking member to secure the first and second housings together. Therefore, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the assembly of Uramichi such that the assembly has a washer cooperating with the cam locking member to secure the first and second housing together, such as the assembly disclosed in Kojima. One would have been motivated to make such a modification in view of the suggestion in Kojima that the cooperating cam locking member and washer allows relative rotation of the first and second housings without coming off of the locking member.

Allowable Subject Matter

6. Claims 1-5, 8-12, and 14-21 are allowed. Claims 23-26, 29, and 30 are objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims. With respect to claims 7, 13, 24, and 30 wherein allowable subject matter has been indicated, applicant's reply must either comply with all formal requirements or specifically traverse each requirement not complied with. See 37 CFR 1.111(b) and MPEP § 707.07(a).

Response to Arguments

7. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-6 and new claims 8-31 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
